[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO APRIL 14.

EUROPE.

English People Warned to Leave Paris

LONDON, April 13.—The English Consul at Paris has warned all Englishmen to leave the city.

Rumors from Paris.

NEW YORK, April 13.—It is reported that Assy and Bergeret are condemned to death by the Commune for high treason

The allowance of the National Guards has been increased to three francs daily.

It is rumored that Ducrot is disaffected to the Government.

Insurgents Claim Advantages.

PARIS, April 13.—The Cri du Peuple says the Versailles troops are driven from Neuilly and flying to Courbevoi. The Versailles attack yesterday was a failure. Versailles troops have cut the Orleans railway. An intermittent cannonade was kept up all night. This morning Valerien is firing heavily.

Reports from Versailles.

VERSAILLES, April 13.—The alleged Communist victories are unfounded. No engagement Tuesday or Wednesday occurred—only an insurgent fusilade and cannonading this morning. The Versailles occupy all roads leading to Paris. Delegates from a party of conciliation have returned to Paris. The conditions of peace proposed to them by Thiers were, that Paris shall first lay down her arms, then municipal franchise will be granted the city.

German Dispatches.

BERLIN, April 13.—The amount of credit to be asked of the German Parliament is 120 million thalers.

HAMBURG, April 13.—It is reported that France has undertaken to restore to their owners all German ships taken by French cruisers and not condemned as prizes of war.

BRUSSELS, April 13.—The German financial delegates, who are to assist at the Peace Conference here, arrived to day.

BERLIN, April 13.—Gen. Herworth von Bittenfeld is promoted to the rank of Field Marshal.

WASHINGTON CITY

General News.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The War Department is still without advices from the reported troubles in Texas, between the Mexicans and United States soldiers

The President has nominated members for the Legislative Assembly of the District of Columbia. Among the members for two years is Fred Douglas.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the Senate amendments to the deficiency bill, the question being on the amendment repealing the law to fix the meeting of each Congress on the 4th of March. The Senate amendments repealing the law was then concurred in, ayes 99, nays 97.

The following Senate amendments were then concurred in Appropriating $30,000 for the expenses of the Joint Select Committee on outrages in the Southern States; appropriating $30,000 for the branch mint at Carson City, Nevada; appropriating $250,000 for the subsistence of the Arapahoe and other Indians, with an amendment reducing the amount to $200,000.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—In the Senate, Wilson, upon his own request, was excused from service upon the Southern outrages investigation.

Robertson gave notice that he would ask for a vote on the amendment to the order of business, to permit action on the general amnesty bill as soon as the Ku Klux bill was disposed of. The regular order of the Ku Klux bill was proceeded with.

Thurman made a lengthy argument against the centralizing tendencies of the bill.

Sumner spoke briefly in favor of the Ku Klux bill.

The first pending amendment being merely a verbal improvement of the bill, was voted upon. The amendment was agreed to, 41 to 7, and it was then arranged, by unanimous consent, to hold an evening session for debate on the bill, and that the measure be disposed of finally to-morrow, the session to commence at ten.

A Contest from Ohio.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Certain citizens of the Third Congressional District of Ohio, now represented by Lewis D. Campbell, represent to the Committee on Elections that they have discovered new evidence to show that Campbell is not entitled to a seat. The period for taking testimony having expired, they ask that additional time be allowed. The argument will be heard to-morrow. Schenck is not a party to the contest.

The President has ordered that in future the heads of departments shall grant leave of absence to territorial officers only for reasons of the most urgent character, and then for the shortest possible time.

THE TERRITORIES.

The Indians known as the "Sheep Eaters" have an almost universal desire to be settled on a reservation in the Salmon river country, near old Fort Lemhi.

The Olympia Tribune makes a "last appeal" to the citizens of that place for donations of land to secure the N. P. R. R. terminus. However, we expect more "last words" soon.

A delegation from Montana is at Washington trying to get through Congress a "little bill" of $530,000 for Indian war claims. The job don't make much progress, and the lobbyists are not very confident or hopeful.

Ex-Gov. Ashley of Montana, has been mustered into the service of the Northern Pacific Railroad in the emigration field, where he will prove a host, and where he will be able, as he is most earnestly disposed to do, a great deal for Montana.

Arcadian Simplicity.

A story of the lovely lives of the aboriginal inhabitants of the Isthmus of Darien comes to us by way of Panama A delegation of these gentle savages having visited that city on a matter of business, they were instantly interviewed by a citizen—so infectious is a bad habit—and the local papers spread their story before the world The aboriginal mind appears to have opened under the application of skillful cross-questioning, like a flower under the sun of spring, and with a pardonable pride the gentle people boasted of their freedom from the corruptions of civilization. They were asked what they did with their thieves and murderers, but the question caused them to open their dove-like eyes in mild astonishment. They declared that in their happy villages nobody stole from or murdered another; and so to them the punishments of death, forced labor and penitentiaries were unknown. One missionary has visited these people, but they asked, For what? He could do no good. They believed in God. What more could be desired? Their religion being thus simple and pure, they need no preaching. The language they speak is described as being singularly soft and beautiful. They toil not, neither do they spin, for the earth yields spontaneous dinners, and the untutored mind of the dweller upon the banks of the running streams requires no other drink than the purest water It is pleasant to know that this guileless race is within the reach of the curious traveler—but if civilization should chance to encroach upon them, its native simplicity might vanish

Last February a proposition was made in the upper house of the North Carolina Legislature to observe the birth-day of Washington, the 22d, by adjourning Senator Worth, a brother of ex-Governor Worth, and a Democrat, successfully opposed the motion, and one also to raise the stars and stripes in honor of the day, because he said, "the State was too much oppressed by the United States Government."

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Latest from Paris

PARIS, April 13.—The thirty delegates of the party of conciliation have returned from Versailles They are silent as to the details of their negotiations with the Thiers Government. Nothing will be made public until a full report of their mission is completed.

The plate seized in the Bureau of Ministry of Foreign Affairs is being converted into specie.

The Commune are considering the column in Place Vendome a barbarous monument,—a symbol of brute force and false glory,—and have decreed its demolition.

The Mot Ordre claims that the Nationals now occupy the whole of Neuilly, and expects a general attack will be made to night by the army at Versailles.

WASHINGTON CITY.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The President has not yet abandoned his contemplated trip with his family to the Pacific coast, and is making arrangements for being absent six weeks The date of departure is uncertain, owing to doubts as to the result of the session of the Joint High Commission and the necessity of calling an extra session of the Senate.

Judge Strickland, from Utah, is here for the purpose of obtaining of Congress an appropriation to pay the expenses of the District Court of Utah for the trial of criminal cases recently tried. The Federal Courts of Utah have transferred the duties heretofore performed by the Territorial District Attorney and Territorial Marshal to the District Attorney and Marshal appointed by the U. S. authorities. These decisions were based upon the definition of the organic act and the previous decision of the Supreme Court of the United States. Brigham Young finding the occupation of his District Attorney and his Marshal gone, refuses to pay the expenses of the courts for the transaction of Territorial business. The effect of this refusal is to stop the course of justice. Indictments have been found against many persons, some of them Mormons, for criminal offenses and practices, but they cannot be tried because there are no funds to pay expenses. It is feared the courts will continue to be prevented from considering criminal cases, and summary vengeance against murderers and other criminals by action of vigilance committees will be the consequence. It is to prevent the re enactment of such illegal scenes as these, which have been witnessed in other territories, that an appropriation of $30,000 was to be added to the deficiency bill now pending before Congress. It is suggested and deemed necessary that Congress could subsequently reimburse the treasury by levying a tax upon the territory.

EASTERN STATES.

The Prussian Minister at Washington.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Baron Schlosser, Minister Plenipotentiary of the North German Confederation, has arrived from Mexico, where he had been Prussian Minister several years He is to replace Baron Jerome in Washington.

CANADA.

HAMILTON, April 14.—At Pioche City, on Wednesday last, a man named Thomas Gorson was shot by Mike Casey. Gorson died yesterday morning from the effects of the wound. A misunderstanding in relation to the settlement of a balance due on some mining property sold by one to the other, was the cause of the affair Casey is in custody.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—More freight is offering for Oregon than the regular steamers can carry away. A large lot was refused by the steamer yesterday.

An agreement for the sale of the San Francisco, North Pacific & Petaluma Railroad to the California Pacific & Vallejo Railroad is signed, and the transfer takes place immediately. It is said Peter Donahue clears $100,000 on the transaction

Five hundred men have commenced work on the Southern Pacific below Gilroy.

The steamers Alameda and Washoe have been secured for the Odd Fellows' picnic on the 26th inst.

Skating rinks are being opened in all parts of the city, several buildings having been constructed especially for that purpose.

OGDEN, April 14.—Passed west this evening, J. S. Flowerdew, Portland.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—The returned freight agents' excursion party, having transacted most of the business contemplated in their visit to the Pacific coast, are now going in for seeing the State. To-day they went to Angel Island. To-morrow they start for Calistoga, and the Geysers.

It is reported that the Belcher levied an assessment of $4 a foot to-day.

It is arranged that the arguments in the Fair murder case shall be made in the following order. Campbell for prosecution, Cook and Quint for defense, District Attorney Byrne closing for the people. It will take at least two days for the arguments.

The stock sales the present week aggregate nearly two million and a quarter dollars.

The California Ice Manufacturing Company, to use Carres' industrial or continuous freezing apparatus, with a capital of $250,000, was incorporated to-day The trustees are, Juan A. Robinson, Alexander Austin, David D. Colton, J. T. Dean, H. P. Wakelee, T. J. L Smiley and Frank McMillan

The weather is clear, dry and pleasant.

Four-fifths of the stockholders of the California Steam Navigation Company agreed to vote to disincorporate on the 10th of May. A dividend of 15 per cent. will be paid to morrow, the remainder of the funds realized by the sale to the California Pacific Railroad Company will be ordered to be distributed at the May meeting.

ARIZONA.

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—The Prescott, Arizona, Miner of April 8th, contains the following.

Recent arrivals from Mariposa county confirm the news of Indian horrors published last week, and bring shocking details; also news of later depredations. Soon after starting from the Bradshaw district for Phoenix they encountered fresh Indian signs most of their way to Salt River. There they learned of an attack on Hannah's train, the killing of Hannah, burning of wagons, grain and running off of twenty mules. This attack was made on the 26th of March. The herder, who was asleep in one of the wagons when the attack was made, is not yet heard from. The day following Colonel Snively, Andrew Starr, Henry Reed, P. Morgan and George Roe were attacked by about one hundred and eighty Indians near White Pacheco. At the first fire Colonel Snively fell wounded, and was left to the mercy of the savages by his comrades, who became panic struck and ran away. His dead body was afterwards found terribly mutilated. The deceased was one of the oldest living Arizonians.

Mining news from all quarters continues favorable.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Dispatches from Albany.

ALBANY (Oregon), April 14.—The track of the Oregon & California Railroad is now completed to the Calapooia river, ten miles south of this city. The bridge for the above named stream passed to the front day before yesterday, and is now under process of construction. The timber having all been framed below, and now on the ground, it will be finished in a short time.

It is the intention to have one hundred miles of the road in running order by May 1st It is also the intention to have sixty additional miles finished before the next rainy season.

The concert for the benefit of the Methodist Sabbath School was a success.

Last evening a little child of Mr. Wolf fell out of a chair and broke its leg in a painful manner.

Judge Thayer, of the Second Judicial District, adjourned the Circuit Court of Benton county three weeks to enable farmers summoned as jurors to put in their spring crops.

Last Tuesday the Masons and Odd Fellows of this city went to Salem to attend the funeral of Stephen T. Church.

A German was fined five dollars for assaulting a colored lady on the street

On last Tuesday evening the employes of the Oregon & California Railroad presented J. L. Hallett, Assistant Superintendent, at the Overland Hotel, in this city, with an elegantly chased silver dinner set. After the presentation a fine supper was disposed of.

Weather cloudy and raining.

JEFF. DAVIS.

MORE ABOUT HIS SPEECH IN SELMA—THE CAUSE OF THE REBELLION NOT ONE OF THE DEAD ISSUES WITH HIM.

The Selma (Ala.) Press gives a very complete account of Jeff. Davis' recent reception in that place, and of his speech on the occasion. It will be seen that this eminent "Democrat" is still hopeful of the success, through Northern Democratic effort, of the principles on which the rebellion was based. We quote

About 11 o'clock a brass band appeared on Alabama street, in front of the hotel, accompanied by a crowd of two or three hundred people The band discoursed "The Bonnie Blue Flag," and on the cessation of the music loud calls were made for "Davis, Davis." In answer to the call the chief of the fallen Confederacy appeared on the balcony, and addressed the crowd for about ten minutes in a strain of impressive eloquence, which told with powerful effect upon his hearers He commenced by complimenting in general terms the people of Alabama. He had always loved them, and now felt that he could rest in peace with them forever. They were bone of his bone, and flesh of his flesh. Alabama and his own State of Mississippi were yet one in principle, as they had once been one in territory. Their people had sent forth their sons to battle on the same field for their rights as States. But, asked the speaker with bitter emphasis, are they States now? Yet, proceeding in an exultant tone, he declared that State sovereignty, although defeated in the late struggle, will ultimately triumph, its day of success might not come in his time, but he would live and die in the belief that it would surely triumph. He declared that no people on earth had ever suffered as had the Southern people since the surrender of the Southern armies, and he loved them for the fortitude with which they had borne the oppression heaped upon them He had always been willing to [illegible] people, and now if any Yankee [illegible] blood to atone for [illegible] people, they could take it On him the Government had done its worst, and for himself he did not care, but for the sake of the people whom he loved, he would forbear to express more fully the feelings of his heart. He never had asked pardon for what he had done, and he never would, for he felt that he had done no wrong. Mr Davis concluded amid the applause of the crowd, which had loudly cheered the salient points of his speech As he retired the band struck up "Dixie," after which calls were made for Gen. Pettus and Gen Morgan, but no response was accorded, and the crowd soon after separated. Mr Davis looks to be in fine health.

Commenting editorially upon these utterances, the Press says:

In his brief speech, in this city on Monday night last, Jefferson Davis reiterated his faith in State sovereignty, and asserted his belief in its ultimate triumph. This is the first occasion of which we have any knowledge that Mr. Davis has, in public, touched upon the general political questions that agitate the country. It must be that the recent election in New Hampshire, the native State of his friend Pierce, produced an unusual degree of exultation in his mind, it may be that the expectation of a Democratic success in the Presidential contest of 1872 was strengthened and confirmed into confidence, and he would no doubt consider such a victory as the ultimate triumph of State sovereignty. It is well that the people all over the country should know that so distinguished a champion of State sovereignty as Jefferson Davis has not given up hope of the ultimate triumph of that cause. We commend these views to the consideration of that portion of the Northern Press and people which has been led to believe that the cause of the rebellion is a "dead issue" in the minds of the leading men at the South

Senator Howe Vindicates the Removal of Senator Sumner.

Senator Howe, of Wisconsin, has addressed to Mr. Theodore Tilton of the Golden Age, an admirable letter on this subject, in answer to some of Mr. Tilton's strictures. We quote portions of it:

At the opening of the present session of Congress, the Senate, as has been its usage since the foundation of the Government, made several changes in its standing committees. So far as I can learn, both you and the public are content with all these changes, except the last.

It is quite in accord with parliamentary usage that committees should be formed so as to reflect what may be the fixed ideas of the body upon subjects to be submitted to their consideration. But it is not certain Mr Sumner could have been left off the Committee on Foreign Relations on that ground. It is not certain that a majority of the Senate is in favor of acquiring Santo Domingo. It is certain that no attempt was made to leave him off for that reason. It is certain that his opinions upon the Dominican question were not urged against him. They were not urged in the Senate as you know. They were not urged elsewhere so far as I know Besides you know very well that Mr Sumner had opposed annexation long prior to last December. Yet he was then placed upon that committee in spite of that opposition You know that other Senators besides Mr Sumner have opposed annexation with equal steadfastness, and yet no one of them has been molested.

* * * * * * * *

No; whether the reason be good or bad, I stated the true one for transferring Mr. Sumner on the floor of the Senate. He could be of no further use to the President, the Senate or the country at the head of the Committee, for he would no longer hold personal intercourse with either the President or the Secretary of State.

No one insists that Mr. Sumner shall ride after any man's horses, or drink any man's wine, or eat any man's dinner, unless he chooses to do so Mr. Sumner may undoubtedly choose his own personal associates. But whether he can choose his own position in the public service also is another question to be determined. If he does not choose to associate with the man whom the Republican party made President two years ago, or with the man whom the President and the Senate made Secretary of State, that is a matter of taste for which no one can call him to account except the people of Massachusetts. But if he insists upon excluding those gentlemen from his society, and still to stand at the head of a Committee with which those officers ought to have such intimate communion,—that concerns the public service. That is a claim for the Senate to consider The Senate considered it, and decided in the negative.

* * * * * * * *

You do not, but others do, point us to the result of the recent elections in New Hampshire as the legitimate consequence of the Senate's action. Many a pious wish is expressed that the lesson may not be lost upon the Republican party. That lesson will not be lost. God help us, it cannot be lost We shall remember that lesson. The Senate assigned Mr. Sumner, it is said, to the wrong Committee, and Mr. Sumner's friends therefore assigned New Hampshire to the Democratic party. That is the lesson. It is not likely to be forgotten But what is the practical application to be made of this lesson? Are we to understand that when Mr. Sumner's wishes are not obeyed Mr Sumner's friends are in alliance with the Democratic party? Cheap Goods—Low Wages.

In his tour in the Scottish Highlands Dr. Johnson noted the fact that eggs were cheap, and remarked that the cause was, "not that eggs were many, but that pence were few." They who clamor for complete free-trade in this country insist that the policy they advocate wold cheapen commodities,—which might in some cases and to a certain extent be true; but of what benefit would this cheapness be, if there were little or no money to buy with? Introduce free trade, and the manufacturing industry of this country will be extinguished at once by the British steam engine. Our laboring people are now able to buy what they need because they receive remunerative wages. But let their wages stop, or be greatly reduced,—and one or the other of these results would surely follow the introduction of the free trade system,—and what would it avail them that goods were cheap? Why is the American laborer better off under the protective system, which some denounce as a feeder of monopolies, than the English or Irish laborer, under the system of free trade? They who envy the cheapness of goods in England and lament their high price in the United States might profitably note the fact that the laborer in America can save much more out of his earnings, over and above the cost of living, than the English laborer can, and that in this country there is a chance for every laboring man to better his condition and attain finally to independence; while in the country of free trade, which is held up to us as an example of correct political economy, the laboring man has no sort of chance, and toils all his life without hope of more than a meager subsistence.

Hence it is that such laborers in the country of free trade as are able to save enough to pay for fares across the ocean come to America. They are not attached to England because they can, perhaps, buy cloth at a somewhat smaller price per yard, or a pair of blankets at a lower figure, in that country than in the United States; but they come because they can get wages here and accumulate wealth. It is evident that they do not consider themselves "robbed and oppressed by protective monopolies;" for if so they would certainly remain where they could enjoy the full benefit of the beneficent system of free trade, with low prices and still lower wages.

An English Opinion.

The Liverpool Mercury, speaking of the [illegible] loans now in the field, says that the [illegible] operations of the United States in the English and other European money markets, already highly satisfactory, will be greatly facilitated if the negotiations before the High Commission at Washington result favorably. [illegible] national debt, it says, is large, [illegible] cost is very great. But the resources of the United States are boundless:—in twenty or thirty years of peace the [illegible] debt of the United States will be reduced to a trifle, if it should not be paid off altogether. But a war of three or four years with England would double even the present large debt of America, and would render the repayment of that debt impossible within any reasonable time. This is so evident as to [illegible] strong and reasonable hope of the continuance of a good understanding between [illegible] and the United States, notwithstanding the interested violence of political incendiaries. If the present mode of settling disputes between England and the United States by means of a High Commission like that now sitting at Washington, should be successful, it will not only serve as a precedent [illegible] succeeding times to the two nations [illegible] concerned, but may also have some influence on other countries."

A Promising Prospect.

There is evrey probability that many cargoes of the wheat of the next harvest will be shipped from here direct to foreign ports. Vessels will be here with railroad materials and with general cargoes of foreign merchandise, and they will take return cargoes of grain. This is the best way for Oregon to realize the full advantages of her wheat crop, inasmuch as she saves, by shipping direct, the commissions and profits of middle men in San Francisco. Grain can be shipped from here to foreign ports at almost as low rates as from there.

A large harvest throughout Oregon this year will contribute immensely to the wealth, prosperity and activities of the State. Especially will this be so, if, as now seems almost certain, there should be a failure of crops in California. If, to the heavy disbursements of money for internal improvements in the State, and to the general activity resulting therefrom, there should be added a bountiful harvest, we should have by far the most prosperous year ever known in Oregon. There is an almost certain prospect that wheat will bear a good price, and now is the time for farmers to take advantage of it and sow grain.

It distresses the Democratic paper at Oregon City to observe that the OREGONIAN does not approve of Sumner's war on the Administration, and attacks President Grant in Sumner's behalf. It would delight that paper if the OREGONIAN would lend itself to the work of disrupting the Republican party and thus help the Ku Klux-repudiation-secession Democracy to power. It can't be gratified. The Republicans of Oregon propose to carry the State in 1872, and the OREGONIAN, instead of laboring to disorganize the party, intends to do its full share toward securing the victory.

From the Oregon City Enterprise we learn that "the financial policy of the Administration long since proved a failure." What that paper would call a successful financial policy would be quick and complete repudiation. 'Tis bad enough, viewed from a Democratic standpoint, to pay the debt at the rate of one hundred millions a year, instead of repudiating it outright. Hence it follows that "the financial policy of the Administration is a failure."

Several of the Democratic papers continue to brag about the "victory in Connecticut." It is such a victory as John Phœnix gained when he "held his opponent down with his nose, which he had inserted between the said opponent's teeth for the purpose!" The Herald says its party "held its own on Congressmen." Yes; it elected one out of four. How many "Democratic victories" like this will it take to raise that party to power?

Most of the Democratic papers avoid publishing the exposure of the frauds attempted by their party in the Connecticut election. The Herald would not have published it could it have avoided doing so. But even that paper judiciously refrained from making any comments.

Wearing Masks.

Prudent ones of the Democratic party are now doing their utmost to induce the outspoken and indiscreet to keep silence. They entreat such as manifest a disposition to exhibit the true instincts of Democracy to suppress the violence of their demonstrations, or all will be lost. They beg them to be more cautious and discreet, and to moderate the tone of their utterances. It is perceived that the party is likely to be damaged greatly unless those who blurt out its real sentiments and purposes are silenced; hence these continued appeals for "moderation," and these entreaties addressed to those who are vociferating for a new revolution, for the revival of State rights—secession doctrines, and for the overthrow of the constitutional amendments, to put the seal of silence on their lips and repress their noble rage, till the party gains power. Then they can speak out.

It is observable that they who are employing this entreaty at the same time persistently deny that it is the Democratic intention to disturb any of the results of the war. Yet the fact that they are obliged to suppress for the sake of expediency violent utterances of the indiscreet members of their party, proves just the contrary. It proves that the real, dominating sentiment of the party is one of hostility to the results of the war and to the amended Constitution; it proves that the party actually intends, in case it achieves power, to attempt, as a Southern paper recently expressed it, a "readjustment of our institutions upon renewed Constitutions," and should convince every one who wants peace of the danger of permitting a Democratic triumph. Who does not know that this element of that party, which now hardly conceals its revolutionary intentions, comprises three-fourths of the whole organization, and that it will direct the policy of the party in accordance with the revolutionary programme? The Democrats of the South, lately in arms against the Government and the Union, would govern a Democratic administration. And what their course would be the Southern Democratic press, from which we have lately printed numerous extracts, plainly tells. In that section they speak plainly and scorn to wear a mask. What Republican can afford by indifference, inaction, or even dissatisfaction with some of the members of his own party, to strengthen an organization whose triumph would be fraught with so much danger to the best interests of the country?

The Kentucky Ku Klux

Nasby, in a recent letter from "Confedrit X Roads" thus throws the blame of the Ku Klux disturbances in Kentucky upon those whom the people about the "Corners" think are the ones really to blame:

> There can't be no doubt ez to where the blame ought to rest. The niggers have got an insane idea into 'em that they are reely citizens by virtoo of the 15th amendment, notwithstandin the fact that every justis uv the peece in Kentucky has declared it unconstooshnel, and consekently void and uv no effect. They b'leeve they hev rites ez citizens, and they won't be managed as they yoosed to be. They insist on being paid for labor, wich allus irritates the Southern mind, and they continyooally insult us by offerin their votes, wich ain't to be tolerated for a minit. Ef they wood quietly resoom their normal posishen, and let us rool em es we yoost to, I ashoor yoo there wooden't be no trouble whatever. Ez to the Northerners, they are reely at the bottom uv the whole trouble. They come down here and bi land, and try to build factrys, and set the niggers wild by hirin uv em, and payin uv em, and they take incendiary periodicals, and do their level best to disorganize things generally, and we can't hev no peece so long as they are permitted to be here. In all that hez been done our people have acted in self-defense.

The Military Division of the Missouri, established in 1866, and now commanded by Lieut.-Gen. Sheridan, with headquarters at Chicago, extends from British America on the north to Mexico on the south, and from the Mississippi to the Rocky Mountains. The number of Indians found within these limits is estimated at 188,416. The military force scattered over this vast region consists of twelve regiments of infantry, five of cavalry, a detachment of engineers, and four batteries of light artillery.

The State Lands.

The Oregon Sentinel of April 8th has an editorial on the above subject which remarks that:

> The Daily Oregon Herald of the 1st has a long article upon the condition of the "State lands," in which it arraigns the former Republican State administrations with much inattention and neglect in regard to the same, and claims the exact reverse for the present Democratic administration.
>
> Seriatim it goes through with each class of lands in which the State has, or might have had an interest, but for nonfeasance of Republican authorities, and winds up with much flat adulation of the powers that be. The people of this State, we are willing to admit, will allow that their Democratic rulers have not been inattentive to the subject of the State lands.
> We find a Democratic Legislature busying itself with the 508,000 acres of school land, $200,000 of the proceeds of which it gave to the Oregon City canal and lock swindling enterprise, when another perfectly responsible company asked for the privilege of making the same improvements for $125,000; and this swindle received the sanction of the Governor. Next we find that patriotic and incorruptible Legislature engaged in a plundering scheme in regard to the swamp lands to which the State is entitled; and this also with the approval of our virtuous Governor. Now we do not doubt but that the same commendable attention will be bestowed on the other classes of lands mentioned in good time, unless the people of the State conclude to dispense with any further blessings of Democratic rule. There is, only one reason against it, and that is some of the lands named, may not be loose enough to be got hold of with ordinary Democratic legislation. But if it is, it's a gone "goos."

An agent of Louis Napoleon is said to have purchased the house in Ajaccio in which the first Napoleon was born, with a view, it is thought, of its becoming the residence of the ex-Emperor. This is improbable, as Corsica is subject to France, and Napoleon would scarcely be permitted to reside within the jurisdiction of the Government of that country. But, while it might happen that the ex-Emperor may reside in that house, its traditions would avail him nothing for the grandeur of his family. No second Napoleon Bonaparte could ever see the light within its walls.

One very sensible reason assigned for the formation of a Congressional KuKlux committee to go down South and take testimony during vacation is that their appearance down there will produce the most quiet and peaceable communities to be found anywhere. They understand how to fix things, and will be on their good behavior, at least as long as the committee are sitting.

A woman's rights' woman has written an essay wherein, if we may believe an enthusiastic admirer, she proves beyond question that the immortal Shakespeare was a woman, and that all the wisdom of Socrates consists of quotations from the curtain lectures of his wife Xantippe, for which he was not man enough, or rather too much of a man, to give her credit.

CURRENT NOTES.

Senator Sumner, says the New York Mail, is only consistent on one question. When the rights or welfare of the colored race are involved it is always safe to predict where he will be found. But on other subjects he does not so rigidly adhere to one line of policy. He expended all the resources of his rhetoric on the frozen wastes of Alaska, but the tropical wealth of San Domingo presents no attractions to him. He is nervously solicitous about trampling on the rights of an imaginary "Republic" of Dominica, but would have no hesitation about demanding the transfer of the Provincials, like so many globes of soul, with her Majesty's territory on this continent. Consistency is not the greatest of virtues, but it is a virtue, and Mr. Sumner ought to cultivate it a little.

The Baltimore American says of Mr. Sumner's speech: "His haste to put his speech before the country seems to show that he was afraid of the effect the report of the Commissioners would have, and that he was anxious to get off his little piece of personal vindictiveness in advance. Without knowing anything about the character of the report, we venture the prediction that there is not a material allegation which Mr. Sumner brings against the Administration for the part it has taken in the matter that it will not emphatically contradict. Mr. Sumner is too old to enter into the contest for the Presidential nomination. His speech yesterday looks like an effort in that direction, but it will amount to nothing."

SPRING STYLES.—KOHN & FISHEL, as usual, are the first to fill their store with the new Spring Styles of Clothing and Furnishing Goods. Their stock is very large, and their goods of the best quality, and latest styles. Messrs. "WHAT HAVE YOU TAKEN FOR IT?" said Mrs. Laura Thompson to her friend Miss Lake, referring to a sick headache with which the young lady was continually afflicted. "Oh," said Miss L., "I've taken cathartic pills enough to load a cannon." "Discard them," said her friend, "and try my medicine, PLANTATION BITTERS. Bile is the cause of the difficulty; and I know by experience the Bitters is a certain cure for biliousness." Miss Lake adopted Mrs. Thompson's advice, and was cured within a fortnight. A PASS NOT PASSABLE.—[illegible] city has just arrived down [illegible] ports that the surveyors [illegible] Railroad Company, [illegible] the Snoqualmie Pass [illegible] from just before [illegible] that on the first of M[illegible] was seventeen and a half feet [illegible] the tenth it was still fifteen feet [illegible] of pass will hardly do for a [illegible] road route.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—The [illegible] At the annual election of the [illegible] lent Society of Vancouver, [illegible] that city on the 6th of April [illegible] cers were elected for the [illegible] I. Q. Healey; Vice Pre[illegible] cording Secretary, John [illegible] Secretary, W. F. Healey [illegible] Kolien.

U. S. COAST SURVEY.—[illegible] and Clark have received [illegible] ment of men for camp duty in the coast survey under Captain Fletcher. These surveys will extend from Shoalwater Bay northward. [illegible] schooner Humboldt is expected at Shoalwater [illegible] this week with supplies.

PORTLAND ACADEMY.—The present term [illegible] this school will close on the 25th inst. It [illegible] been in every way a very prosperous one. The Select Prize Exhibition will occur on the evening of Saturday, the 21st inst. The summer term will begin after a vacation of one week—on Monday, the 8th of May.

"THE OCCASIONAL."—This is the name of a new publication by [illegible] of this city. It is issued mostly as an expedient for advertising the editors as teachers of music and their "Academy of Music." It will make its appearance hereafter, the editors say, "occasionally."

PLANS FOR RAILROAD WORK.—The plans and specifications of the work to be let to the contractors, by the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, will be in readiness for examination on and after next Monday, at the office of Mr. Morris, Engineer for the Pacific division.

IN THE ASYLUM.—One day this week, Mrs. [illegible] D. Durgin of Olympia, was brought over to this city, and placed in the Insane asylum at East Portland.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

There is said to be such a scarcity of lime in this market that jobs of masonry have had to be suspended.

One of the juvenile thieves who has figured conspicuously of late in the Police Court has been sent to sea on board the Prince of Wales.

Mr. Edmund T. Coleman, a gentleman of fine scientific attainments, has lately executed a painting of Mount Hood, from a point at the upper end of this city. Rev. Mr. Stoy will take [illegible]

The Sentinel says that Mr. E. O'Conner, formerly of this city, is about to leave San Francisco for Charleston, South Carolina, where he may probably reside for the future.

The semi monthly meeting of Baker Post G. A. R., will take place at half past seven o'clock this evening at the hall, corner of Madison and First streets. Full attendance desired.

The second story of the steamship wharf at the foot of E street, has been begun.

The steamship Pacific is advertised to sail for San Francisco at four o'clock P. M. on Monday.

Street improvements are going on very lively just now in all parts of the city, under the operation of various late ordinances.

[illegible] Portland Board of Trustees.—At the [illegible] meeting of this Board, Thursday evening, [illegible] were present—Messrs. Hawthorne, Lane [illegible] Trustees. Absent—Messrs. Hepple [illegible]. The Committee on Claims reported [illegible] bill of D. Rafferty for $7 50 and G. W. [illegible] for $5 as correct, and warrants were ordered [illegible] in payment of the same.

[illegible] Committee on Streets and Public Property, [illegible] was referred the remonstrances against [illegible] improvements of Fourth, G and L [illegible] reported that the remonstrance was signed [illegible] by owners of less than the requisite two-thirds [illegible] of the property lying adjacent to the said [illegible] where improvements were to be made, and [illegible] that the improvement be proceeded [illegible] to the proposed improvement [illegible], more than two thirds having remonstrated, [illegible] that the trustees have no power [illegible]. The report was adopted. The same [illegible] reported that they had entered into a [illegible] with the City Surveyor for all the [illegible] engineering necessary to be done [illegible] of J, L, G, Fourth and [illegible], to pay for the same $312. The re[illegible].

[illegible] were ordered in payment of Nat. H. [illegible] for rent of Council Chamber, and [illegible] Weber, $100, on contract for sewerage. [illegible] bill of the Herald for printing was referred [illegible] on Accounts and Current Expenses.

[illegible] ordinance to amend ordinance No. 33, entitled "An ordinance to regulate the letting of [illegible] for street work," was read first and second [illegible].

[illegible] offered by Mr. Lane, authorizing [illegible] City Attorney to draw a contract with the [illegible] Surveyor in accordance with the verbal contract [illegible] for street surveys, etc., was [illegible].

[illegible] Definition of Kalama.—A correspondent [illegible], whose very early arrival in [illegible] (1839) and continuous residence here [illegible] with his intimate knowledge of [illegible] dialects, and especially the Chinook, [illegible] concerning such matters to [illegible], writes us concerning the meaning of [illegible]. He says: "In yesterday's [illegible] the arrival of material for a new [illegible], the new town on the Columbia, [illegible] I presume the editor will [illegible], and will give a definition of [illegible] place. In former publications [illegible] at Portland, I have seen [illegible] definitions of the name, as "Pretty [illegible] Maid," etc., none of which are [illegible]. The word Kalama is of pure Chinook [illegible] origin, and means "Goose." The creek [illegible] below, were called by the Chinooks, [illegible] occupants of the Columbia from its [illegible] to the Dalles, Kalama Chuck or Goose [illegible]. In these waters there used to be thousands of wild geese in their season. I hope the [illegible] and significations of the old land[illegible] will be kept in remembrance, and for this [illegible] this as an item of early history."

[illegible] Changes.—We saw, yesterday, in the [illegible] of Capt. J Douglass, a copy of the first [illegible] of the New York Sun, dated September [illegible], 1833. It was about twelve by sixteen inches, [illegible] thirds of the sheet was devoted to [illegible] matter. One of the editorials stated as [illegible] for gratulation that business was quite [illegible], the city seemed lively as [illegible] many strangers present, and [illegible] nearly full. As something re[illegible] it was stated that the register of one [illegible] showed 1,795 arrivals during the [illegible]. Think of a New York hotel [illegible] with only 1,795 arrivals in one month! [illegible] traveling public of the United [illegible] arrive in New York, and [illegible] and lost in the street throngs.

[illegible] Larceny Case.—The man [illegible] we mentioned yesterday morning [illegible] committed at Kalama for larceny, [illegible] on the steamer Thursday afternoon [illegible] opposite the mouth of the Wallamet [illegible] in a wagon to Vancouver. We [illegible] man who came up on the same [illegible] he was extremely obstreperous [illegible] the examination and afterward; [illegible] to be ironed both hand and foot to [illegible] the Court and officers, and [illegible] to be carried by several men when he [illegible] the boat. He seems to have [illegible] customer.

[illegible]—On Thursday the dead body of a [illegible] found, lodged in a drift in the Columbia [illegible], which is supposed to have been G. W. [illegible] some two or three months [illegible] drowned himself from the wharf at [illegible]. The face was too much destroyed [illegible], but a bunch of keys found in a [illegible] was identified by Mr. Slocum of Vancouver [illegible] the same he had seen in the possession of [illegible]. There was a peculiar sort of watch key [illegible] a night key, both of which Mr. Slocum believes he saw Ford have while at Vancouver. [illegible] were taken to Vancouver and given [illegible] burial, yesterday.

[illegible] Passage.—Mr. Wadleigh of this [illegible] has just arrived down from Yakima. He reports that the surveyors of the Northern Pacific [illegible], who have been examining [illegible] Pass the past winter, were heard [illegible] he started down. They report [illegible] of March the snow in the Pass [illegible] and a half feet deep, and that on [illegible] it was still fifteen feet deep. That sort [illegible] will hardly do for a great overland railroad.

[illegible] Officers.—The Sentinel says: [illegible] annual election of the Hibernian Benevolent Society of Vancouver, held at their hall in [illegible] on the 5th of April, the following officers [illegible] for the ensuing year: President, [illegible]; Vice President, F. Brogan; Re[illegible], John O'Keane; Corresponding [illegible] W. F. Healey; Treasurer, John Mc[illegible].

U S Coast Survey.—Messrs. Stephenson and [illegible] have received an order for a complement of men for camp duty in the coast surveys [illegible] Fletcher. These surveys will extend from Shoalwater Bay northward. The steamer [illegible] is expected at Shoalwater Bay [illegible] with supplies.

Portland Academy.—The present term of [illegible] school will close on the 28th inst. It has [illegible] in every way a very prosperous one. The [illegible] Prize Exhibition will occur on the evening [illegible], the 29th inst. The summer term will begin after a vacation of one week—on Monday the 8th of May.

"The Occasional."—This is the name of a [illegible] by J. B. & H. S. McGibeny of [illegible] city. It is issued mostly as an expedient for [illegible] the editors as teachers of music and [illegible] of Music." It will make its [illegible] hereafter, the editors say, "occasionally."

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

We get the subjoined items are from the Advocate:

The new Baptist Church at Oregon City will soon be completed.

Bro. Fairchild, of Olympia, has let the contract for building a beautiful church edifice in Tumwater, two miles south of Olympia.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pope, of Oregon City, have each been in Portland the past week, looking for important articles for the M. E. Church of the former place.

The Ladies' Furnishing Society of the Taylor street M. E. Church, will give another of their entertaining Sociables, in the basement room of the Church, on next Wednesday evening. Admission fee as usual.

Prof. L. L Rogers of the Willamette University, has been improving a few days of relaxation by riding the district as presiding elder. He preached at the quarterly meeting on Saturday last, at Forest Grove.

Rev. C. W. Shaw, of Bloomfield, Iowa, Rev. G. W. Izer, of the Central Pennsylvania Conference, and Rev. L. M. Nickerson, of the Virginia Conference, have all been recently transferred to the Oregon Conference. The latter, Rev. L. M. Nickerson, will take immediate charge of Salem M. E. Church. We learn that he was formerly a chaplain in the army.

Rev. I. D. Driver and wife (Miss Annie Northrop) arrived from the East by the last steamer. They have been sojourning a few days in this city, until such time as they can be relieved entirely from the disagreeable effect of sea richness. Bro. Driver made a favorable impression, we understand, for Oregon wherever he went throughout the East. He will at once resume his duties as Agent of the American Bible Society.

AMUSEMENTS.

Lecture.—Mrs. A. D. Wiggin, of Los Angeles, California, will give a free lecture at the Oro Fino Theater, Sunday evening, April 15th, commencing at seven and a half o'clock. All are invited.

Matinee.—The affecting drama of East Lynne will be enacted at the 2 o'clock matinee to-day.

"Ticket-of Leave Man."—This very popular and truly excellent drama will be produced this evening at Oro Fino Theatre, with all its appropriate scenery and stage effects. The character of the Ticket-of-Leave Man is one in which Mr. Bates comes out particularly strong.

Mrs. Bates' Farewell Benefit.—Despite the most unfavorable weather of last evening, Oro Fino was filled, and by the most fashionable and brilliant audience of the season. Every chair in the house was taken before the hour of opening, and many ladies, even, were compelled to occupy the benches back near the gallery. Mrs. Bates appeared in the play very soon after the opening, and was received, at her entree with enthusiastic and prolonged applause, and she elicited, as the play went on, frequent repetitions of the same signs of approval. She gave a fine and artistic rendition of Thisbe, the Actress of Padua. The personation is a difficult one, because of the frequent and sudden transitions required by the author from the expression of one passion or deep emotion to another, its antipode, or from agony of heart, to impassiveness; yet there were very few passages, indeed, which the severest critic would care to censure, while there were many which were admirably rendered, showing that she had carefully studied the emotional and impassioned character of the part she played. At the close she was called before the curtain and greeted with a rousing round of applause. Similar testimonials of approval were given her in the afterpiece, in which she appeared for the especial gratification of her friends. In both pieces the beneficiary was admirably supported by Mr. Bates and Mr. Vinson.

The Purest and Safest.

The efficacy of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters as a specific for recruiting the enfeebled body and cheering the desponding mind has passed into a proverb. In the United States this marvellous tonic, has borne down all opposition and eclipsed all rivalry, the demand for it has annually increased in a heavier and heavier ratio for years, until, at last, the regular sales of this preparation exceed those of all other stomachics combined. Eminent members of the medical profession and hospital surgeons without number, have candidly admitted that the pharmacopoeia of the faculty contains no prescription that produces such beneficial effects in dyspepsia, general debility and nervous diseases, as Hostetter's Bitters. To use the language of a venerable physician of New York, "The Bitters are the purest stimulant and the safest tonic we have." But the uses of the great vegetable antidote are much more comprehensive than such praise would imply. As a preparatory antidote to epidemic disease, a genial stimulant, a promoter of constitutional vigor, an appetizer, a stomachic, and a remedy for nervous debility, no medicinal preparation has ever attained the reputation of Hostetter's Bitters. It is the household tonic of the American people, and in all human probability will be for centuries to come. The magnates of science recognize its merits, and that it is emphatically the medicine of the masses, is proven by its vast and ever increasing sales.

A HOUSEHOLD BLESSING.

THE BIBLE AND GEOLOGY.—NO. 3.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

SIR.—It has been a common remark of late that the Bible does not teach the sciences, as such, and hence it is inferred that the discoveries of science cannot impugn any of its statements. But every mind feels that a fallacy lurks somewhere in this theory. It is an attempt to divorce one class or book of truths from another class or book of truths, and thus to harmonize them, or at least avoid a conflict. Yet back of this theory lies the older and surer one, that truths are never in conflict. If the Bible is true it is not in conflict with a true Geology, or a true Astronomy, or a true Philosophy. Its statement of material facts, so far as it makes them, must harmonize with discovered facts. It does state some facts respecting creation, and so far it teaches science, thus anticipating discovery; for one or more facts, in any department of science, are enough to begin or form a basis of that science.

The Bible does give us a cosmogony. It declares an order of creation, or formation, or development, whether progressive from lower to higher forms of organizations, or whether on the principle of adaptation, may be considered in another article. Still it plainly affirms an order in what is termed creation. We are to remember that the Hebrew word translated "created" means to form or construct out of pre-existing material. The record in Genesis briefly declares the orders of formation and habitation of the earth. Geology, by its very extensive, numerous and wonderful discoveries, portrays on a much larger scale an order of formation of this world. The Bible boldly stated the order many thousands of years ago. Geology can hardly be said to have outlived the order previous to the last seventy years, or to have declined it clearly previous to the last forty years. The Bible order has stood unchanged during all periods of history. Geologic theories were in a constant process of change for at least two thousand years. The Bible declares that the earth was once a chaos, "without form and void"—tohu and bohu—which Hebrew words, according to Gesenius, mean wasteness and desolateness, and emptiness or voidness. No vegetable or animal existed. The world then was a mere mass of matter, or materials. Geology, with creditable caution in its researches, hesitates to make a statement so positive respecting that period. Sir Charles Lyell, in his work entitled, "The Principles of Geology," revised edition, 1853, published by Appleton & Co., 1864, page 146, makes this remark: "No satisfactory proof has yet been discovered of the gradual passage of the earth from a chaotic to a more habitable state." The Bible ventured, about three or four thousand years ago, to designate the order of formation and habitation of the visible earth. Geology has come very slowly to any settled conclusion on this subject. The Bible is brief, positive and authoritative. Geology becomes more cautious, and perhaps timid, as its researches become more extended and minute. Sir Charles Lyell finds traces and notes of true geologic facts "in the Egyptian and Eastern and Grecian cosmogonies, especially as interpreted by Pythagoras." He says of Strabo, the Greek geographer of the first century of the Christian era: "The profoundness of his views, modern geologists are only beginning to appreciate." Strabo says: "It is not because the lands covered by the seas were originally at different altitudes, that the waters have risen or subsided or receded from some parts and inundated others. But the reason is, that the same land is sometimes raised up and sometimes depressed, so that it either overflows or returns to its own place again." "It is proper," he adds, "to derive our explanations from things which are obvious, and in some measure of daily occurrence, such as deluges, earthquakes and volcanic eruptions, and sudden swellings of the land beneath the sea; for the last raise up the sea also; and when the same lands subside again, they occasion the sea to be let down."

The Bible does not change its tone or its words to suit the ideas which men gain from their partial views of events or facts, but it calmly waits the complete investigations, and finished systems of all science, Geology included.

Some attention has been given to this subject, doubtless, since the days of Strabo, but especially during the last three hundred years.

With many correct data of facts, attempts have been made to harmonize crude interpretations of the record in Genesis.

Mr. Lyell remarks that, "Some of the Italian and French writers of the Sixteenth Century, dared to assert that fossil remains of testacea and fish had once belonged to marine animals." "Steno, a Dane, and a professor of Anatomy, in 1669, had dissected a shark, recently taken from the Mediterranean, and had demonstrated that its teeth and bones were identical with many fossils found in Tuscany." "He declared that he had obtained proof that Tuscany must successively have acquired six distinct configurations, having been twice covered by water, twice laid dry with a level, and twice with an irregular and uneven surface. He displayed great anxiety to reconcile his new views with Scripture, for which purpose he pointed to certain rocks as having been formed before the existence of animals and plants." But "the popular persuasion was, that all fossil shells were the effects and proofs of the Mosaic deluge." Mr. Lyell remarks further, "The theologians who now entered the field in Italy, Germany, France and England, were innumerable, and hence-forward, they who refuse to subscribe to the position, that all marine organic remains were proofs of the Mosaic deluge, were exposed to the imputation of disbelieving the whole of the sacred writings. Scarcely any step had been made in approximating to sound theories since the time of Fracastoro, more than a hundred years having been lost, in writing down the dogma that organized fossils were mere sports of nature. An additional period of a century and a half was now destined to be consumed in exploding the hypothesis that organized fossils had all been buried in the solid strata by Noah's flood. In short, a sketch of the progress of Geology is the history of a constant and violent struggle of new opinions against doctrines sanctioned by the implicit faith of many generations, and supposed to rest on Scriptural authority."

"Moro, an Italian, in 1740 undertook to subject every part of his geologic system to the Mosaic account of creation; and, on the whole, few of the old cosmological theories had been conceived with so little violation of known analogies. But the weakest part of Moro's system consisted in deriving all the stratified rocks from volcanic ejections. Besides, he was misled by his anxious desire to represent the formation of secondary rocks as having occupied an extremely short period, while at the same time he wished to employ known agencies in nature."

"Buffon, in 1751, was required by the Sorbonne, or Faculty of Geology in Paris, to renounce the grand principle in his 'Natural History' that the present mountains and valleys of the earth are due to second causes, and that the same causes will in time destroy all the continents, hills and valleys, and reproduce others like them." "An opinion now no longer controverted," says Sir Charles Lyell.

He adds that, "Gesner, a botanist of Zurich, in 1758 calculated that the recession of the ocean has been so slow in the last 2,500 years that to allow the Appenines, whose summits are filled with marine shells, to emerge to their present height, would have required about 80,000 years,—a lapse of time ten times greater, or more, than the age of the universe. We must therefore refer the phenomenon to the command of the Deity, related by Moses, that 'the waters should be gathered together in one place, and the dry land appear.'

"Arduino, in 1759, deduced, from original observations, the distinction of rocks into primary, secondary and tertiary, and showed that in the mountains of Padua, Vicenora and Verona there had been a succession of submarine eruptions."

"Hutton in 1788 labored to give fixed principles to Geology, as Newton had succeeded in doing to Astronomy. The ruins of an older world, he said, are visible in the structure of our planet; and the strata which now compose our continents have been once beneath the sea, and were formed out of the waste of pre-existing continents. The same forces are still destroying and building up."

"Voltaire found that the most popular systems of Geology were accommodated to the sacred writings, and that much ingenuity had been employed to make every fact coincide exactly with the Mosaic account of the deluge; he endeavored, therefore, to inculcate scepticism as the real nature of fossil shells; called them the sports of nature; and said that vegetable impressions were not real plants." Kirwan, in his Geological Essays, in 1799, says that, "Sound geology graduated into religion." He defended the "aqueous theory of all rocks."

De Suc, at the same time held, "that the formation of the rocks which enter into the crust of the earth, began with the precipitation of granite from the primordial liquid, after which other stratas containing the remains of organized bodies were deposited, till at last the present sea remained as the residuum of the primordial liquid, and no longer continued to produce mineral strata." "In 1790, while the rival schools of Freyburg and Edinburg, respectively representing the Neptunean and Vulcanian theories of Geologic formations continued their strife, William Smith, an English surveyor, published a 'tabular view' of British strata; and in 1815 finished a Geological map of the whole of England."

From this period the modern progress of Geology dates, according to Sir Charles Lyell the new school, or students of Geology, did not attempt to theorize, but only to collect facts.

But during this long period of strife, among rival schools of geology, and vain effort to accommodate the chronology of the hills and deltas with the supposed chronology of the Scriptures, the honor of both suffered. One class assailed the Bible. Another class assailed geology. The contest became a partisan warfare.

During this century, however, geologists have confined themselves rigidly to the discovery and collation of facts from all accessible parts of the earth and sea. The result has been, a harmonious and simple outline of the earth's crust, delineating its strata, and its successive conditions and inhabitants, with apparently natural divisions.

Turn now to the Bible, and you find the record of at least six periods of distinct formations, styled creations. Turn again to the most recent geologic map, Prof. Dana's, for instance, and you will find four great periods of time marked:

I. Azoic Age, in which no vegetable or animal fossils have been found.

II. Paleozoic, or ancient life Age, comprising the age of mollusks, fishes, and carboniferous vegetation, that is, the age of the oldest discovered fossiliferous animals and plants.

III. Mesozoic, or middle life Age, or that in which reptiles, huge saurians abounded.

IV. Cenozoic, or recent life Age, or that in which mammals abounded, including man.

It will be noticed that these four geologic divisions carry us back only to the Azoic Age, or that in which no fossils are found. Geologists are not sure, from discovered facts, whether their so-styled Azoic Age is the limit in which or beyond which there was no life, vegetable or animal. Their position is merely negative. They mark the age as destitute of any vestige of organic life. Besides they mark the first life on earth, as that of animal life, the mollusks. Mr. Lyell remarks, page 132 "We have as yet obtained but scanty information respecting the state of the terrestrial flora at periods antecedent to coal; but the Bible positively declares that the earth brought forth grass, herb yielding seed after his kind, and tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind, in the third day, and that the waters brought forth abundantly on the fourth day—period." The Bible thus defines the third period as that of dry land and vegetation, which the geologist calls his first or azoic period, because, in it he finds no trace of life. It is fair to assume that his ignorance cannot yet annul the positive affirmation of the Scriptures; but far beyond the view of the geologist, the Bible defines two preceding periods; the first in which God divided the light from the darkness; the second in which God "made the firmament, and divided the waters, which were under the firmament from the waters, which were above the firmament, called the second day," "period." Geology has furnished us no facts and no theory respecting those vastly distant periods, and it probably never will be able to do it. Sir Charles Lyell's work on the "principles of geology," closes with this remark: "To assume that the evidence of the beginning or end of so vast a scheme lies within the reach of our philosophical inquiries, or even our speculations, appears to be inconsistent with a just estimate of the relations which subsist between the finite powers of man and the attributes of an infinite and eternal being." The Bible long ago disclosed all that geology has discovered, and much more respecting the formation and habitation of the crust of the earth. Instead of shrinking from the "Testimony of the Rocks," its revelations as far surpass in scope and sublimity that testimony as its themes and its author surpass those themes, and man, who ponders them.

There are further details of agreement between the Bible periods and those of geology which may be traced in another article.

SHORT PARAGRAPHS.

A Louisville German, quietly sipping his beer and playing "sixty-six" in a saloon, is informed by an excited compatriot, rushing in, that his horse has ran away. "Ah! vy don't you schtop him up a leetle?" Being told that the distance prevented, he turns to his partner: "Come, Shake, hurry up and play dish game out. if dat horse git schmash up my vife gif me Hail Columbus, aint it?"

Mr. Murry said in a late sermon: "I have no idea that God ever intended man to be sick or die. Disease is the immediate cause of death. Instead of death, I believe, if man had not sinned and brought disease and death into the world, that he would have been translated; would have, in consciousness, elapsed into another sphere; that God intended all to be like angels." Again: "Our business anxiety and care are of less importance to the world than we think. Three months after I were dead I would not be missed in this pulpit. Its place would be filled. If any of you should die, after a little while you would not be missed, even in your own family."

A colored gentleman was tried before a colored Judge, charged with theft; the case was submitted to the jury under the following charge "Gemmen of Jury—Dis prisner you are tryin' is charged with the crime of stealin'. Stealin' is the takin' and carryin' away of de goods of another. He must not only take 'em, but must tote 'em off. Dis prisner took the goods, but before he got out of the store de owner made him leff 'em dar. If de storekeeper wanted to make de prisner a thief he should waited until the prisner had left the store and toted off de goods. You must find the prisner not guilty." The jury concurring in the law as laid down by the court, instantly acquitted the accused.

The Memphis Appeal vouches for this: "It was discovered during the week that the venerable black cat which has held possession of the Overton stables since the building was put up, has for a companion a patriarchal gray rat. They hunt in couples in the night, and successfully make war on all sorts of 'varmints.' It appears that about ten years ago the cat had a tremendous fight about three o'clock of a Summer's morning, with a powerful rat, and Tom came forth worsted, played out, utterly licked and crest-fallen. In the course of a week, however, he made up terms with the rat, signed a treaty of peace, offensive and defensive, and both took several whiffs from the calumet, a practice which the rat had been taught by the Chickasaws long before Tom came along here from North Carolina. Since then they have been fast friends."

The steamer S. exploded several years ago, with terrible effect, and burned to the water's edge. Captain S. was blown into the air, alighting near a floating cotton bale, upon which he floated uninjured, but much blackened and muddled. Arriving at last at a village several miles below, to which news of the disaster had preceded him, he was accosted by the editor of the village paper, with whom he was well acquainted, eager for an item. "I say, is the S. blown up?" "Yes." "Was Captain S. killed?" "I am the Captain." "The thunder you are! How high were you blown?" "High enough to think of every mean thing I ever did in my life before I came down here." The other started on a run for his office. The paper was about going to press, and not wishing to omit the item of intelligence for the next issue, two weeks off, he wrote as follows: "The steamer S. has burst her boilers, as we learn from Captain S., who says he was up long enough to think of every mean thing he ever did in his life before he lit. We suppose he was up about three months."

Cheap Water Pipe.

"THE ASPHALTUM PRESSURE PIPE COMPAny," of San Francisco, having purchased of the patentees the sole right to manufacture on this coast, are now making an article at their works, at Alameda Point, that will supply the general want of a cheap and durable water pipe. The invention originated in France, where these pipes are extensively used, as well as in Germany, in fact, all over Europe, almost entirely superseding for all ordinary purposes the use of iron. It is no new thing, having been in use twenty years

Its Durability.

Being imperishable and insensible to atmospheric influences or chemical properties of the earth, it never changes, and is consequently much more durable than iron, which corrodes, and in time leaks.

It is a Non-Conductor,

And will not freeze except at a remarkably low temperature, and even then its expansive power is greater than that of frozen water. In warm weather it acts as a cooler for water passing through it.

Neutrality to Acids and Alkalis.

This pipe is not affected by acids and alkalis, nor is it affected by galvanic currents—consequently is invaluable in conducting telegraph wires under ground through tunnels and under bridges.

Elasticity.

The elasticity of this pipe prevents its bursting from outward shocks or concussions. The interior of the pipes being glazed, are as smooth as porcelain, and consequently are never clogged by adhering sediment.

Lightness.

The mean weight of these pipes to iron is as one to five, which not only facilitates handling, but reduces the cost of transportation.

Laying the Pipe

Is a simple matter—can be laid by any laboring man of ordinary intelligence, but the Company, if required, will always furnish a competent person, free of expense, to oversee the proper laying of the pipe Contracts taken for any required length of pipe from water or mining companies, and warranted to stand according to contract.

Pipe Under Pressure

Can be seen at the office of the Company We are the only parties manufacturing this pipe on the Pacific Coast under this patent. All other offered is spurious and an infringement.

Cheapness.

The cost when laid, including connections, is about one quarter that of lead and one-half that of iron
We manufacture this pipe in lengths of twelve feet, and ship it everywhere, by all sorts of conveyances—no special care being required. We manufacture it of any size from one to twelve inches.

Pressure.

We manufacture according to the pressure required from 1 to 400 pounds to the inch, and guarantee it to stand the pressure

Prices.

1 inch, 10 cents per foot	For pipe capable of resisting a pressure of 150 lbs to the square inch.
2 inch, 20 " "
3 inch, 30 " "
4 inch, 40 " "
5 inch, 60 " "
6 inch, 60 " "
8 inch, $1 00 "
10 inch, $1 25 "
12 inch, $1 50 "

This pipe being made of a combination of paper, canvas, and asphaltum, in lengths of twelve feet, should not be confounded with moulded asphaltum pipe in lengths of four feet.
